Complementary feed (powder) for rabbits

Soothing, natural tea blend to support the immune system in times of increased nutrient requirements

Herbal teas have a long tradition around the world and have been prepared for thousands of years. Mixing tea plants is an art, so you should use tried and tested blends. The acceptance of teas by rabbits is usually excellent. They are readily consumed both pure and as a food supplement. The tea preparation makes the ingredients highly available. Herbal teas should be given for 2-4 weeks.

Composition: mallow blossoms, ribwort plantain leaves, field horsetail herb, elderflowers, lime blossoms, thyme, fennel seeds

Analytical constituents: crude protein 11.2%, crude fat 4.3%, crude fiber 17.8%, crude ash 13.3%, ash insoluble in HCl 4.5%

Feeding recommendation: Pour 125 ml of boiling water over 1 tsp of tea blend, leave to infuse for 15 minutes and strain. You can offer the tea undiluted alongside the drinking water or add it to the food. The tea will keep in the fridge for 1-2 days.
