Care product for cats

Care oil for odor masking toward ticks and other nuisances

They wait patiently in the grass, bushes or trees to pounce on any suitable host animal that comes across their path. They usually find their hosts by scent. Ticks and other parasites are particularly troublesome for outdoor cats, as they can cause severe itching and transmit diseases such as borreliosis. An infested cat does not notice the tick right away and therefore does not brush it off.

feliTATZ Defense Concentrate was developed specifically for cats and is a skin-nourishing scented oil that masks the animal's natural scent. As a result, the animal is no longer perceived by parasites as an attractive host worth infesting. Application is simple and can be customized depending on the presence of ticks or other nuisances in the cat's territory. With regular use, the masking properties are long-lasting.

Composition: organic coconut oil, jojoba oil, rapeseed oil, olive oil, neem oil, geranium oil, lavender oil, manuka oil

Application recommendation: Massage 1 drop from your wetted finger into the skin between the shoulder blades daily for 3 weeks. 1 drop corresponds to approx. 50 mg. Once basic stabilization is achieved, 1-2 applications weekly are sufficient. In case of strong regional infestation of parasites, the frequency of applications can be increased individually.

Contains lavender oil, citronellol, and geraniol. May produce an allergic reaction.
