Product description

ColumbaVet BerryMix contains mainly various berry pomace. Pomace are the solid plant components that remain after pressing the juice. Especially in the husks and solid parts are still many valuable vitamins, minerals, and flavonoids (antioxidants). Antioxidants and vitamins strengthen the immune system and are particularly important for preventing and degrading oxidative stress that occurs during physical exertion. The body regenerates faster. COLUMBAVet BerryMix should be given year-round, but especially during the traveling season, molting, and before and during rearing.

COLUMBAVet BerryMix is eaten very readily by the pigeons and is also excellently suited to increase acceptance as an addition to less palatable products.

strengthens the immune system contributes to faster regeneration supports physical fitness and promotes performance in sports is suitable as an acceptance enhancement for less palatable products
