Product description

Even our otherwise robust domestic cats can suffer from sensitivities in the stomach area. Frequent vomiting, especially directly after eating, reluctance to eat or general indisposition can be signs that the stomach is in turmoil.

feliTatz Gastric Protection supports the natural regeneration of the sensitive mucous membranes without interfering with the absorption of important and necessary ingredients from food. The protective substances coat the mucous membranes of the stomach and intestines, and thus ensure a natural and gentle rehabilitation. In addition, the excess stomach acid, which is often a cause of nausea, is bound.

Bonds excess stomach acid and protects the gastric mucosa

Supports the natural regulation of the acid-base balance

Harmful substances and toxins can be bound with the help of humic acids and volcanic earths

Cell protection through antioxidant properties (OPC)

Can support the physiological regeneration of the gastric mucosa
