Product description

In a healthy intestine the balance of the intestinal flora is intact. Pathogenic bacteria thus do not find an ideal basis for life and can only develop with great difficulty. Since a large part of the immune system is located in the intestine, an intact intestinal flora favors a well-functioning immune system.

PhytoStart Prebiotic is a feed complement with a special mineral complex that has toxin-binding properties. It was specifically designed for particularly intense, nutritional-physiological support in digestive disorders. Due to the feed composition, fattening poultry may suffer from digestive disorders, which are indicated by thin feces, for example. PhytoStart Prebiotic supports the intestine especially in the binding power of liquids - important for animals prone to indigestion. The development of a healthy intestinal flora is essential for a healthy development of young animals.

A healthy intestinal flora signifies:

optimal feed uptake and conversion
suppression of harmful germs
lower ammonia pollution in the stable
more stable animal population in terms of health, less frail calves and piglets suitable for mixing into the feed via the medication doser for powder Proven product in turkey fattening !
